ASP.NET Core Web API AppSettings.json file

Mahesh Chand | Mahesh Chand Blog

appsettings.json in ASP.NET Core Web API

Configuration is a core part of any application. Generally, software developers or operators environment specific or frequently changed configuration settings in a file. In ASP.NET Core Web API, the default configuration file is appsettings.json. This article explains how to use appsettings.json file in ASP.NET Core Web API.

This article is a part of AppSettingsExplorer, the series of ASP.NET Core Web API configuration articles. In this article, you will learn about:

- Different Configuration Sources Available in ASP.NET Core Web API
- Environment Specific AppSettings.json Files
- Accessing Configuration Information in ASP.NET Core Web API
- Creating Strongly Typed Configuration Classes
- Binding appsettings.json Sections to Strongly Typed Classes
- Using Options Pattern
- Using Options Pattern in Middleware
- Reload Options Pattern
- Reload Options Pattern in Middleware
- Reload Options Pattern in Middleware
- Reload Options Pattern in Middleware

Introduction and ASP.NET Core Tutorials
ASP.NET Core Tutorials
ASP.NET Core Tutorials